

Partners on the frontlines: Forest communities lead the way to resilience and building back better

World Forestry Congress Side Event

05 May, 2022 | 10 - 11:30 KST

Join RECOFTC and The Forests Dialogue as we visualize indigenous and local communities as equal partners and meaningful leaders in overcoming the complex challenges we face today. Representatives of forest communities from around the world will present solutions and an agenda for change developed through a participative process. These solutions promote 'one health' and address the threats of climate change, deforestation and degradation, loss of biodiversity, poverty, inequality and exclusion, food insecurity, and conflict.
