

Nancy Jennings Aburto, PhD MS
Deputy Director, Food and Nutrition Division
Economic and Social Development Stream
Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO)
2021

Dr. Nancy Aburto is the Deputy Director of the Food and Nutrition Division of the FAO where she supports the strategic planning, development and management of the broad portfolio of FAO's work in nutrition. With more than 16 years of experience working globally in the field of nutrition, her expertise spans from acute undernutrition to overweight/obesity and the double burden of malnutrition; and from nutrition science research to nutritional epidemiology to large scale programming and policy.

Prior to joining FAO, Dr. Aburto worked at the UN World Food Programme, World Health Organization, US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Mexican National Institute of Public Health. Dr. Aburto, a United States national, received a PhD in Nutrition and Health Sciences from Emory University, Master's Degree from the University of Georgia, and a Bachelor's Degree from Duke University.