The Global Agriculture and Food Security Program

October 11, 2010

What is it?

- A response to the calls from L'Aquila (AFSI) and Pittsburgh (G 20) to develop a multilateral trust fund to scale-up long-term and structural agricultural and food security assistance to low income countries
- A mechanism to make coordinated donor support more predictable for strategic & innovative country-led agricultural and food security plans susceptible of producing results, produced through existing aid effectiveness measures

What is it NOT?

- GAFSP is NOT a World Bank-led Program
- Is NOT emergency assistance
- GAFSP is NOT a Vertical Fund
- GAFSP does NOT produce ag/FS strategies
- It does NOT have a big dedicated staff, large overheads, or lending objectives that are distinct from those of existing donor coordination/country-leadership mechanisms such as CAADP or SWAPs.

The desired approach

- Respect the aid effectiveness principles agreed in Accra—country-led programs based on harmonization and alignment
- Reinforce and not duplicate existing efforts to facilitate a strategic and inclusive approach
- Ensure that countries that have truly made the effort to devise high-quality and inclusive agriculture and food plans under initiatives such as CAADP get support
- Leverage host Gov't and bilateral assistance
- Rapid disbursement of funds
- Facilitate participation of CSOs and private sector

How it works: Governance

- A Financial Intermediary Fund (i.e. checking account) at the World Bank, as Trustee
- A Steering Committee (SC) as decision-making body composed of donors and recipient reps in equal numbers as voting members, and the potential supervising entities (SE)--IFAD, WBG, other MDBs, FAO and WFP--and CSOs reps as fully participating but non-voting members
- Appraisal and supervision is provided by the SEs following own regular procedures
- A small Coordination Unit at the WB keeps the process running, with separation of the Trustee role from the potential Supervising Entity roles of IBRD and IFC

How it works: independent TAC

- The Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) is composed of technical specialists independent of SEs/WB who provide due diligence to the SC following an elaborate Terms of Reference and scoring template
- TAC ranks proposals according to: Country Need (12.5%), Policy environment (12.5%), Country Readiness (25%), Proposal Readiness (50%)
- The TAC does not identify, appraise, or supervise projects; these tasks are done by the concerned Supervising Entity using its regular procedures and governance.

How it works: Funding

- Present donors are: USA, Canada, Spain, Korea, Gates Foundation, and Ireland: one more donor to be announced September 21st.
- Recipient regional reps are: Senegal, Sierra Leone, Bangladesh, Mongolia, Haiti, and Yemen
- Donors will earmark funds to either a public sector window for investments and technical assistance, or a private sector window for debt and equity investments in private firms
- The private sector window ($100m) is managed by International Finance Corporation who will submit annual investment plans to the Steering Committee

Who is eligible

Public Sector Window

- Low income countries (IDA)
- Regional entities (e.g. ECOWAS)
- Clear & inclusive agriculture strategies
- Conducive policy environment
- Own budget commitments

Tech Assistance Under the Public Window

- Specialized technical agencies (centers of excellence)
- Proposals aligned to SC requests
- High quality & cost effective services

Private Sector Window

- Private sector firms in eligible countries
- Aligned business activities
- Reasonable financial health
- Equity investment exit options

How it works: Operationalization

- National governments and regional organizations submit proposals on the basis of calls from the SC
- The SC allocates an envelope by country and designates a Supervising Entity to take forward
- Supervising entities appraise country-led projects following standard procedures and safeguards
- The coordination unit consolidates results
- Supervising Entities are responsible for reporting using a joint monitoring and evaluation results framework
- Pledges to date are $914 million over first 3 years—with about $366 million received so far for the Public Window and $47 for the just launched Private Window

Allocations to date

$224m + $11m admin fees allocated June 21 to:
