

RISK MANAGEMENT AND SUSTAINABILITY IN THE MOUNTAINS OF NARIÑO - COLOMBIA

Lina Dorado González
MSc Sustainable Development
Head of The Disasters Risk Management Unit - Government of Nariño, Colombia.

Ormea, July 7th of 2014

LINA DORADO GONZALEZ

Director

Head of The Disasters Risk Management Unit Nariño Government

Environment and Disaster Risk Management Specialist with 10 years of progressive experience working on the intersections of social and technical aspects with the National System of Disasters Risk Management of Colombia.

Master of Science (MSc) in Sustainable Development with focus on Disaster Prevention and Response. University of Valle – Cali, Colombia

Geologist Engineer
Pedagogical and Technological University of Colombia

Dirección Administrativa de Gestión de Riesgo de Desastres

Calle 19 N° 23 – 78 Edificio de la Gobernación

7 23 30 59 – 320 240 72 69

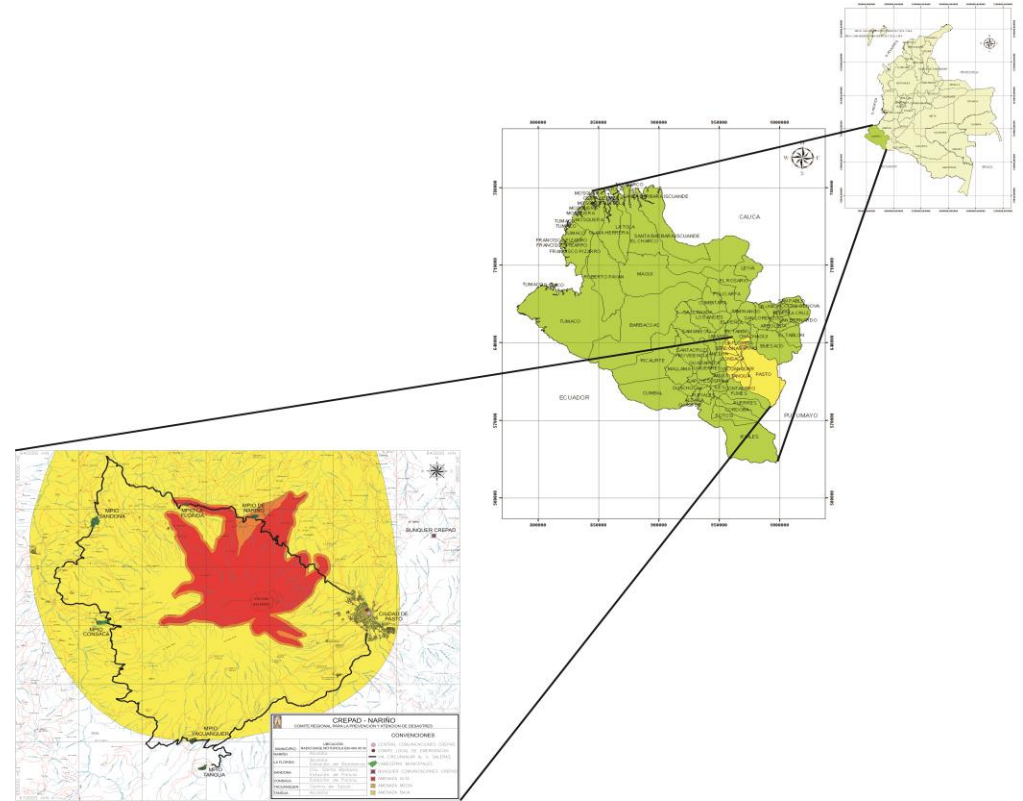

<http://narino.gov.co/dependencias/index.php/es/departamentos/gestion-de-riesgo>

Presidencia de la República

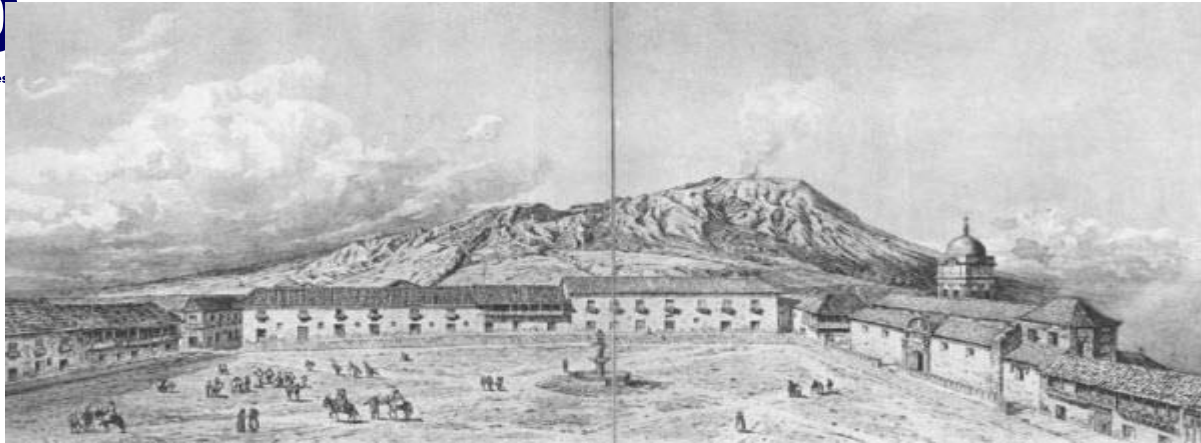

Gobernación de
Nariño

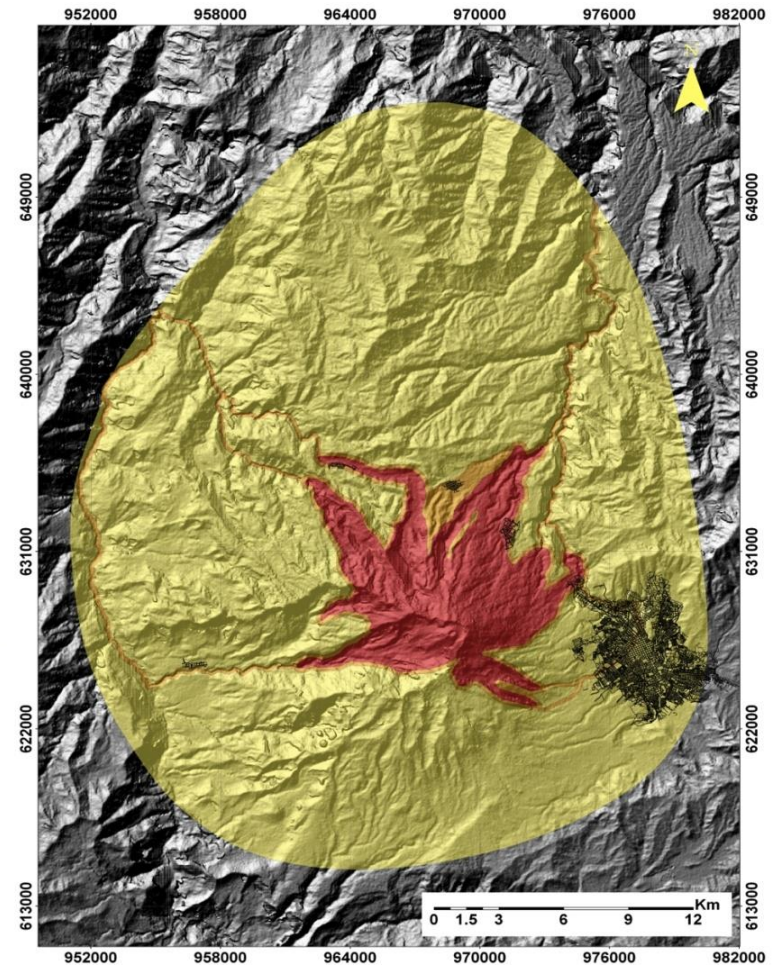

In 1985, an area of about 8600 hectares approximate on the top of the volcano was declared as National Wildlife Sanctuary, which is shared by 7 municipalities. This rich in biodiversity hotspot, is characterized by a rugged and broken topography and altitudes between 2200 and 4276 meters.

Pasto City and Galeras volcano – Narino

Changes in land use and urban development of Pasto has generated land use changes and pressures to the volcano. This affects the provision of environmental services such as fresh water and biodiversity.

Land uses that generate erosion and landslides

Thanks

LINA DORADO GONZÁLEZ MSc – Geologist Engineer
Head of The Disasters Risk Management Unit. Nariño Government

linadorado@narino.gov.co

crepad.narino@gestiondelriesgo.gov.co

Dirección Administrativa de Gestión de Riesgo de Desastres

Calle 19 N° 23 – 78 Edificio de la Gobernación

7 23 30 59 – 320 240 72 69

<http://narino.gov.co/dependencias/index.php/es/departamentos/gestion-de-riesgo>

Presidencia de la República

Gobernación de
Nariño