FAO Global Soil Partnership  International Network of Soil Information Institutions (INSII)	Meeting Number: 7
	Location: Online
	Date: 9-11 November 2021
Agenda Item No	VIII
Agenda Item	Soil Nutrient Mapping (Brainstorming & State of the Art)
Background  The next years' theme of the GSP will be soil fertility and a global symposium is being Co-organized by FAO - Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, GSP/ITPS - Global Soil Partnership / Intergovernmental Technical Panel on Soils. The Symposium aims at addressing the role of soil fertility in delivering high quality, safe, and more nutritious food for better nourished plants, animals and people. It is envisioned that during the GSOIL4N critical knowledge gaps will be addressed as well as setting the stage for discussion among policy makers, food producers, scientists, practitioners and other stakeholders on the creation of solutions that can provide a more nutritious agri-food system and enhance human health and wellbeing.
