REPIVET
Epidemio-Surveillance

The Veterinary Epidemio-surveillance Network (REPIVET) is a regional initiative to interlink national epidemio-surveillance units within the framework of the Mediterranean Animal Health Network (REMESA). The objectives of REPIVET are:

- ✓ To improve the veterinary epidemiology units capacities for surveillance, detecting and reporting of animal diseases through strengthened and regional coordination.
- ✓ To get a better understanding of disease epidemiology which leads to preparedness, early warning, rapid response and design of adapted and updated disease control strategies.
- ✓ To promote better regional management/exploration of disease information in order to upgraded regional zoo-sanitary status.
