

Mr. Teava Iro

Teava Iro is a farmer and founder and the chairman of the Titikaveka Growers Association of Farmers in Cook Islands, he leads community experiments in no-waste food and fuel production. He received the United Nations SEED Award 2009 for contribution to sustainable development on the basis of his work on innovative fish and algae aqua-farming. He is also a co-director of the Aquafarm association in Nigeria and the Coldwater Aquafarm Association in the USA. He is a member of the Pacific Organic and Ethical Trade Community (POETCOM) and has been involved in several international meetings to discuss the relationships between sustainable agriculture and financing resources, trade and food security.